Answer ALL in Answer Booklet.

Question 1 (10 marks)

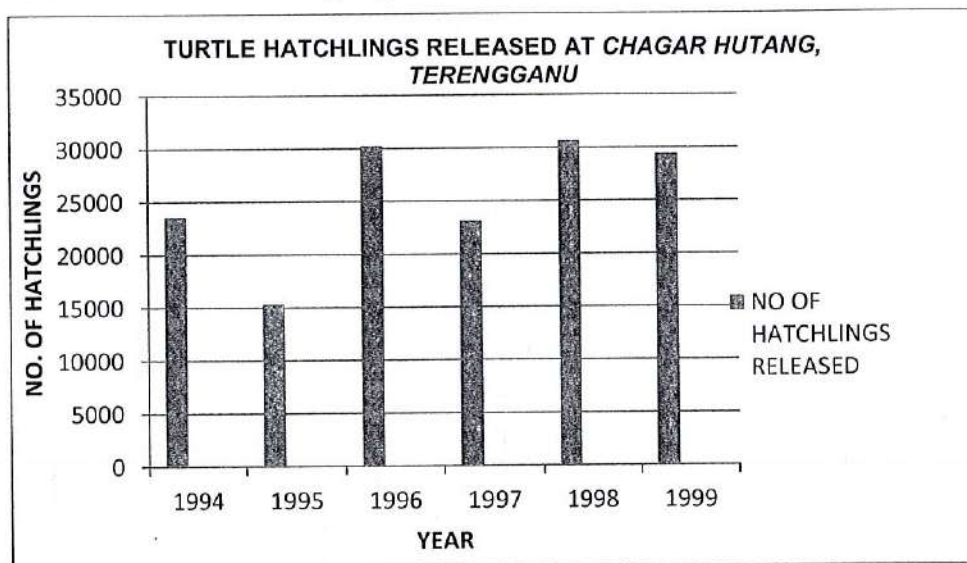

GETTING SOMETHING TO EAT
Nowadays many women work and do not have time to cook for their families. Very often, the families eat out in restaurants. Their taste in food is varied and they want anything from a quick lunch of fried chicken to a grand sit-down dinner with something delicious for dessert. This is why there are so many types of restaurants.	5
The family-type restaurant is one where families can have their meals, both lunch and dinner at moderate prices. The speciality restaurant, on the other hand, specializes in one or just few types of food for which it is famous. A speciality restaurant for example, may specialize in seafood. The prices of food in these restaurants are usually higher than those in family-type restaurants.	10
Thirdly, there is the convenience restaurant which serves fast food and the prices of food are usually quite low. At the convenience restaurant, the fast food served includes beef-burgers and sandwiches. Such food can be prepared, served and eaten quickly.
Just as there are different types of restaurants, there are also different types of services offered by restaurants. These fall into four categories – table service, counter service, self-service and take-out. In table service restaurants, customers are seated at tables and food is served to them by waiters and waitresses. In counter service restaurants, however, food is served to customers seated at a counter by either the person who prepares the food or by a waiter or waitress. In a self-service restaurant, customers help themselves to food which is laid on a counter and they usually carry the food to the tables. In the take-out restaurants, customers place their orders at a counters and “take-out” their food home, or to their offices or to any place where it is convenient for them to eat.	15 20
