Bats are mammals and they are the only true conquerors of the skies among the mammals. All other 'flying' mammals like any species of squirrels and monkeys can only moves smoothly and easily. There are two kinds of bats, fruit-eating bats and insect-eating bats. Fruit-eating bats help forests survive by scattering seeds and fertilize flowers. Insect-eating bats destroy many insects that are harmful for humans or crops. Bats have angular wings with wing bones as the hand and arm of a person. They have skin stretched between the inner fingerbones and their body, making their shape like a kite. This helps them to fly. Many bats fly long distances from one region and another in search of food or better climate. Bats have strange-looking faces. Bats that live in cracks and bamboo have flat heads to help them to crawl into narrow gaps. Many bats are black or brown. Some are bright yellow, silver, orange, white or grey. Some others have spots and stripes on their body or wings.

Section BPart I

Read the passage below and answer ALL the questions that follow.

10 DAY COURSE AT THE OUTWARD BOUND SCHOOL IN LUMUT

- i When put together under circumstances that are physically, emotionally and spiritually taxing, a close bonding among people can occur. What I am going to relate to you is the experience of a group who started out with fear, anxiety and distrust but felt a special bond of love and understanding at the end of the period. Yes, a group of strangers can become closer than a family 5
- ii I will never forget the 10-day course at the Outward Bound School in Lumut. The term outward bound is used to refer to a ship leaving port to venture out into the open sea. And that was exactly what we, the participants, were doing. We were leaving the safe haven of our homes to have a changed self-concept, an increased understanding of others and to accept physical, mental and social challenges. What we did not realize was how tough it was going to be and more so, the changes that were going to take place within us. 10
- iii All participants were put in groups called watches, which were named after famous Malaysian mountains such as Kinabalu, Tahan and Jerai. Each watch consisted of fifteen participants, headed by one instructor and one assistant. This was to help organize the large group into smaller, more manageable groups. Moreover, people feel great to be associated with mountains – big, tall, majestic and inspiring. The instructors guided and encouraged us, especially through the rough times. We did not quite expect them to encourage us as we came with the preconceived idea that the instructors were going to be mean and push us to physical and emotional despair. This was far from true. Our instructors and the other administrative staff proved to be a source of comfort, solace, encouragement, inspiration and friendship. This was least expected and it goes to show that life is a store of surprises! 15

- iv I was in the Kinabalu watch with fourteen other participants, all of whom were young professionals sponsored by their companies. Most of the first day was spent doing tedious administrative work and getting to know one another. Introductions were particularly awkward at first between the girls and the boys but with a bit of teasing, giggles and jokes, we soon got to know one another. On the second day, we were awakened at 6 a.m. for a 2-kilometre run. Many of us were lethargic because we did not have a good night's sleep. Out large, comfortable dormitories had one flaw – rats. The detested pests did a fine job of ruining our sleep. 30
- v After the run came the 12-kilometre hike. The hike up the hill was treacherous and long. The watches started leaving at 7.30 in the morning and trickled back to the school only by 6 a.m. the next day. All except one. My watch, Kinabalu had been the first to leave but had not returned. We got lost! It was a terrifying experience as the day wore on and it grew dark. At night, we lighted a fire and huddled together to keep warm. As our compass had gone bust, we had to depend on our instinct to find our way back the next morning. 40
- vi Several instructors went out to look for our group but with no success. It was only 24 hours later that the Kinabalu watch made it back to school. The next ten minutes was chaotic for everyone was yelling, screaming and hugging one another. This misadventure was an unexpected inclusion in the programme but it certainly bonded the group strongly. 50
- vii All too soon, the course came to an end. I felt sad to leave because the friends I had made there were special. I did achieve my personal goal, that is, to meet as many people as I could. The OBS is not only about learning jungle survival skills or climbing across ropes 200 metres above ground. It teaches us to be tolerant, to care and to be concerned for one another. All of us had been thrown together into an unfamiliar environment and – through trust and cooperation – became a team. More importantly, we became friends. 55

QUESTION 1

- 1 Read the following text. Then, answer questions 1 - 10

TAMAN NEGARA

Taman Negara (National Park) is situated on the borders of Kelantan, Terengganu and Pahang in Peninsular Malaysia. A totally protected area of 4,343 sq km, Taman Negara is one of the world's oldest tropical rainforests. The diversity of its fauna and flora is a result of undisturbed evolution over 130 million years.

Taman Negara is a particularly favourable destination for trekking, as the park's remarkable biodiversity is matched by a good network of jungle trails and the availability of expert guides. The park is also noted for fishing, especially along the upper reaches of the Tahan or Kenyam rivers, and for rafting the rapids of Sungai Tembeling.

Peninsular Malaysia highest mountain, Gunung Tahan (2,187 metres), is located in Taman Negara, and climbing the mountain is an unforgettable experience. Due to the scarcity of water along the route, the journey must be done in two stages, and an experienced guide is compulsory. At least three days are required for the journey to the summit and back.

On the southern edge is Kuala Tahan, the park's headquarters, linked to the outside world by river. A three-hour river trip is the only overland route; and alternative is to take a flight from Kuala Lumpur to Taman Negara.

Using the information from the text, complete the following table.

Taman Negara

Type of forest	1) _____
Size	2) _____
Age of forest	3) _____

QUESTION 2

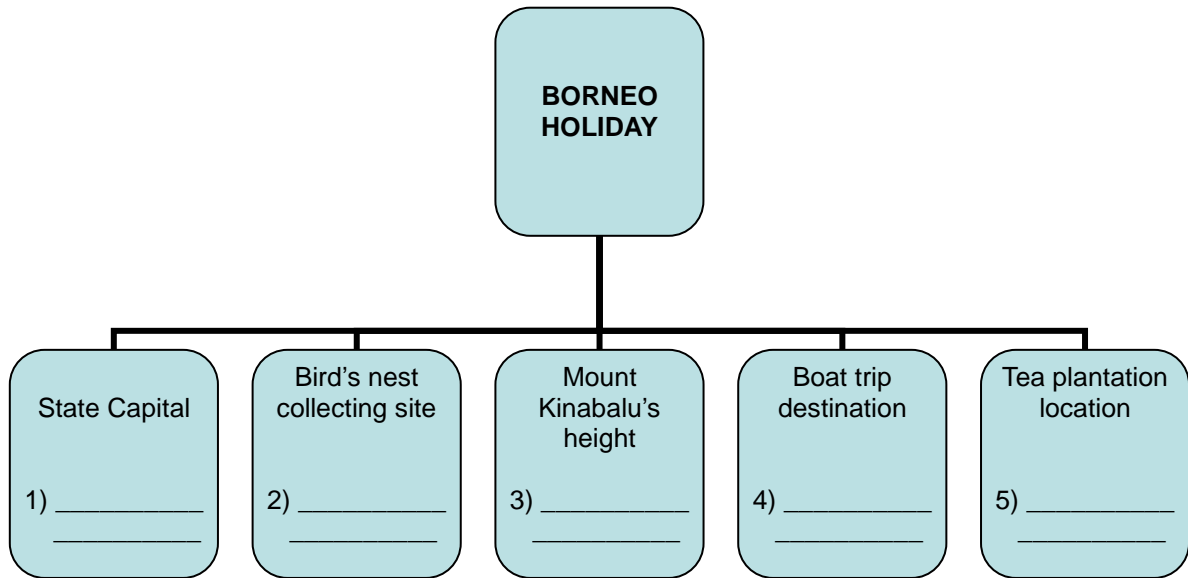

Read the itinerary of a holiday package below and answer questions 1 – 10

BORNEO HOLIDAY, Land below the Wind

Day-by-day itinerary

Day 1	Morning arrival in Kota Kinabalu – state capital of Sabah in east Malaysia’s Borneo – and transfer to a nearby beach resort. Afternoon at leisure to recover from your journey!
Day 2	Day Relaxing in an idyllic beach resort just north of Kota Kinabalu, with a bike ride of the surrounding area and fishing villages for the energetic.
Day 3	Off into the interior with a short, but scenic, drive to Mount Kinabalu National Park. Nature hike in the park with some spectacular views over the 12,000 feet mountain itself, before continuing on to a tea plantation at Kinabalu Valley for our overnight accommodation in a traditional style long house.
Day 4	Early start to see dawn rise over Mount Kinabalu from Signal Hill Observatory with an unusual and fun ‘stream hike’ as our morning’s activity. In the afternoon we’ll continue our journey to historic Sandakan Town on the East Coast.
Day 5	Morning visit to the fascinating Sepilok orang utan rehabilitation centre and after lunch transfer to Bata Puti for a boat trip up river to our day’s destination – a beautifully located, lake side jungle Eco Lodge. Sunset boat trip on the jungle-lined Kinabatangan River.
Day 6	Morning in Danum valley and after lunch return drive to the east coast for a visit to the Madai Caves, famed as a bird’s nest collecting site, and on to Tawau Hills Park for our overnight accommodation.
